Dear Mr. Matiella:

Thank you for taking time from your busy schedule to attend the Recreational Fee Demonstration Tour hosted by BLM March 15, 2004. I hope you gained a better understanding of how BLM in Arizona utilizes this program. As a follow-up to your visit, I'm sending you information regarding the national Fee Demo program as it relates to all land management agencies, including the BLM. I've also included a sampling of letters BLM Arizona has received in support of the Fee Demo Program.

Thanks again for your time and I hope you enjoy the enclosed photograph of our trip.

Sincerely,

/s/ Joanie Losacco

Recreational Fee Demonstration Program

---

March 2004

BACKGROUND:

The Recreational Fee Demonstration Program began in Fiscal Year 1996 through the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act and has been re-authorized annually through the appropriations bills. The current authorization is scheduled to expire on December 31, 2005, with fee revenue to remain available through December 31, 2008. The act provides BLM, National Park Service, Fish and Wildlife Service, and Forest Service authorization to use fees on-site to help maintain the cost of Federal recreation facilities, to enhance visitor services and amenities, and to protect wildlife resources. BLM now has approximately 190 fee projects. The law states that "not less than eighty percent of the revenues must be spent at the site where they are collected, and the remaining revenue (up to 20%) may be used on an agency-wide basis," if necessary, but is very specific regarding the activities for which the funds can be used. Currently, BLM allows 100 percent of the fee revenues at a project to be retained at the site of collection for site management, maintenance, enhancement, and improvement.

Fees collected under BLM's Recreation Fee Demonstration Program:

FY 2003 $10.3 million

Cumulative total since FY 1996 ➡ $42.6 million

It is BLM's policy that all fees return to the area where they are collected and are to be used for on-the-ground improvements and amenities that enhance the visitor's experience, improve accessibility or address health and safety concerns. It is also BLM's policy to use fee revenues to address unmet needs and provide critical services and not be used to backfill for base funding. Typical projects include: maintenance of existing facilities; repairing roofs; paving and grading roads; expanding parking lots; improving and developing new interpretive guides, maps, signs, and exhibits; repairing equipment and vehicles; retrofitting camping areas for people with disabilities; adding communication systems; law enforcement and search and rescue; repairing flood damage; repairing, replacing; and installing new fences, bridges, water systems, and restrooms; repairing and installing boat and fishing docks and access ramps. In many instances BLM uses input from the visiting public, commercial users and Resource Advisory Councils to set priorities for fee expenditures. BLM strives to keep costs of collection at a minimum by using appropriate technology and focusing on convenience to the visitor. In most cases cost of collection is less than 15% of revenues.

EXTERNAL VIEWS:

An independent public survey conducted in 2003 reported the following:

- 97 percent reported favorably on the overall quality of their experience at the BLM sites, with the highest user satisfaction associated with staff services, managing recreation use, and physical facilities.
- On a scale of 1 to 5 (1= "far too low"; 5= "far too high"), respondents scored entrance fees or services at the site as a 3, or "about right."
- 82 percent of respondents "agreed" or "strongly agreed" that the value of their recreation experience at least equaled the fees paid.

Comments:

Please BLM do not try to compete with state and private parks in elegantness and services.
What many would like is
and marked
a reasonable access road
to some attractive and
"natural" land to camp and enjoy. A small fee is of course acceptable.

SUGGESTIONS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Minimal changes only eg. replace wooden tables. Grills aren't used so leave them as is. People who come to a place like this want primitive camping so we don't expect all the frills.
